gineer Commissioner, yesterday requested D. W. Holton, acting superntendent of the Water Department. and Mai Edward H. Grove, water registrar, to provide him with complete uncover the causes for the facts that one-third of the District's water supply was "unaccounted for" last year and that one-fifth of the District's water meters are not working.

Ladue, Engineer Commissioner; Capt. Oram and Maj. Brehon B. Son United States engineer for the District, in charge of the water supply system, discussed Washington's prob able water requirements for the coming ten years,

It had been planned originally to confine present considerations to five-year program for the water sup-ply and distribution systems, but it pointed out by Maj. Somervell while five years might be ample time to figure ahead on distribution, consideration should be given to the supply element for a much longer

Second Five Years Considered.

Accordingly, it was decided to work on a five-year program of expansion but with serious thought to what might be expected to happen during the following five years, in order that might not be nullified by unexpected points in general which were probably will form the topic for a are the estimated expansion and depansion may necessitate in the way probable cost of such expansion of systems are independent of each out by telegraph, telephone or by or jurisdiction are concerned, each derives its revenue from one common source, the District water fund, which is the repository of all revenues taken in from the sale of water by the Water Department, which operates the distribution system. Self-Support Idea Called Hundicap.

During recent years the theory that the Water Department must be a self-supporting institution, deriving its only income from its own col-lections, has acted as a material handicap, according to District offi-cials. They expressed the opinion yesterday that the water fund should Water Department turned over to the general District fund, and all operating expenses of the department paid out of the general fund, the District government.

Thus, it is contended, the Water Department would be in a position cording to the fund available, which is limited definitely by the amount of collections made for water sold to Washington taxpayers.

It was this restriction of funds, District officials insist, which brought about conditions under which onefifth of the Water Department's meters are out of order. The depart-ment is slipping behind steadily each year in its program of completing the meterization of the District and eliminating all flat-rate consumption, and one-third of the District's total insumption of more than 26.000.000.-

Reasons and Remedies Sought.

The ressons for these conditions, and their remedies are what the District Commissioners expect to discover as a result of the study now being carried on by Capt. Oram. Whether these conditions will be found due to inefficient management, as some observers have interpreted various situations in connection with the water systems, and whether they companies under the direction of Henry Duffey. Greatly agitated, most of the business people flocked to the council meeting tonight to learn what they could do to get back their business. Anxious and excited, many of them wanted action immediately, but mone of them opposed the general or asserted that his action was unjustified. While the council suggested no definite plan of action, they called upon all citizens to cooperate in the definite plan of action, they called tipon all citizens to cooperate in the apprehension of law violators, especially bootleggers. Mayor McInter asked all business men to discontinue the selling of bottles and toppers, and help secure information on which action can be taken to stamp out bootlegging in the town.

It is believed that recent automo-bile accidents in which several Marines were killed, prompted the general's action. It is pointed out by citizens that conditions in the last few months in Quantico have been about the same as for the last several years, and that efforts always have been made to arrest all law violators.

Violators have been hard to catch due to the number of transients, now that extensive improvements are being made at the Marine camp, the mayor asserted, and as proof of that statement he pointed to the fact that the agents of the Department of Justice agent ten days in the town doing undercover work, and ascured avi-

It also was contended that testimony he would have given would have been of a circumstantial nature.

MacDonald and Stimson Vie in Statements on Total Tonnage.

HOOVER REMAINS SILENT

There were indications yesterday that the administration was shrinking from the spotlight in which Pre mier MacDonald's statement of Monday had again placed the cruise day had again placed the cruiser problem.

It was only last Friday that attention had been diverted to the broader scope of maval reduction as a whole, a reduction by obsolescence that in the years 1931-35 would result in tremendously lower expenditures on the part of all the major naval powers. Secretary of State Stimson, then in an unusual outburst of frankness, said that too much emphasis had been placed on the cruiser phase. The impression was given that it was considered relatively unimportant when considering the question of an all-round reduction, including capital ships, submarines and destroyers.

But on top of this Premier MacDonald comes along and places the spotlight on the cruler phase where it had been before. This was largely the result of the confusion that his statement of this country's demands statement of this country's demands created.

It was interpreted throughout the day in as many ways as there were interpreters: There were published stories that the premier was mistaken when he said this country was seeking a total cruiser tonnage of 315,000. There was also confusion about his statement that this country is demanding 15 cruisers of the 5-inch gun type, a demand that would entail the building of five more.

Statement Surprising.

The premier's statement that this country was insisting upon 315,000 tons was a surprise here, at that. The figure 285,000 and 300,000 had been used generally in discussions hereabouts but so far as known there, has never been any authoritative statement on the subject.

The point is that the administrative of the confusion, to say whether the 318,000 time, to see separate by McDonald was right. The premier's statement that

Cruisers Are Lacking.

Cruisers Are Lacking.

The concern, in so far as the politics of the question eiters, is not about the success or lack of a success of a big peace undertaking, but what is done about those particular fifteen cruisers. The reason, of course, is that the country has been without cruisers, while it has been well off in other classes of ships.

Those who are close to the President believe that he is of the opinion that if he can keep down outbursts of the cruiser folk until he can present his program as a whole he will have no trouble.

In so far as the Senate is roncerned the impression is that he will be able to have any cruiser plan ratified that has the approval of the general naval board and that, on the other hand, he will have trouble with one not approved by the board, which is to say that Senators Hale and Swanson. Republican and Demooratic naval leaders, respectively, will, it is believed, folow the general boadr.

Answer—While no attempt can be made in this column to predict the future of these or any other stocks, it may be said that, from a speculative viewpoint, the future of all the oil stocks at this writing appears somewhat brighter than of late. This is due, in large measure, to the declining tendency of stocks of oil on hand. For the long pull, Pan Petroleum "B" and Pure Oil are generally well regarded.

N. Y., were lodged in the Bladensburg Jail last night accused of breaking and entry of the Jarvis service station near Beltaville, Md., on the Baltimore Pike and larceny of 35 gallons of gasoline from the station.

The brothers were arrested when Edward Jarvis, proprietor of the station, returned to his establishment early yesterday morning and found, he told police, the brothers had broken the locks of one of his gasoline tanks and helped themselves to 35 gallons of fuel. Jarvis obtained a pistol and held the brothers captive while his wife telephoned the Maryland State police. Sergt. C. E. Duckworth responded and took the young men in custody.

Investigation disclosed, the police reported, that the brothers broke into Emory Loveless' garage near Laurel, and unable to obtain any gasoline after breaking four tanks, syphoned a gallon of gasoline from an automobile and drove to the Beltaville station. The brothers will be tried before Judge J. Chew Sheriff in the Hyattsville branch police court today.

Robert Matthews, 21 years old, of Waterloo, Md., was convicted of failing to stop after an accident, reckless driving, displaying markers belonging to another and having no registration card charges by Justice of the Peace Howard U. Gosnell at Savage, Md., last night and was fined a total $41 and costs.

The charges grew out of a traffic mishap last Sunday morning at Jessup when an automobile driven by Matthews collided with another machine operated by Miss Mary Agnes Brown, of 4805 Fifteenth street northwest. Mrs. Agnes Brown, mother of the driver, suffered severe shock as a result of the crash. Matthews was arrested by Maryland State Patrolman Harry H. Haines at his home the night of the accident.

After a mile's chase along River road, Patrolman Joseph Oldfield, of the Montgomery County force, yesterday overtook a rum-laden carnear the Congressional Country Club and seized 132 quarts of corn whisky. Two men in the car fied into the woods nearby and escaped.

Oldfield, driving a police car, got behind the rum-running car to arrest the driver for speeding. When capture seemed almost certain, the car came to a stop and two men leaped out and fied. The confiscated vehicle and its moist cargo were taken to the Rockville police station, where investigation disclosed that the license tag numbers were "dead."

Telephone Pay Boxes Looted at Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 17.—Rifling of pay station boxes of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. in Annapolis and nearby territory by picking locks, similar to practices that have been going on in Baitimore City for several days, has been discovered, and detectives and police officials are endeavoring to trace the culprits.

The pilfering is believed to be the work of outside parties, though no tangible clew has been uncovered, with the exception of numbers on the license plates of an automobile, bearing two strange men, who were seen acting suspiciously at one of the places where the thlevery was perpetrated. Thefts in four booths in the city and one in Eastport have been uncovered by telephone company officials as the result of an investigation.

The Welch pay bill has not proved to be satisfactory legislation. Designed primarily to provide temporary relief for underpaid Government workers, in many cases it failed to provide any relief whatsoever and in other cases it boosted salaries that already were as high as they deserved to be. During the last session there was considerable sentiment for "interpretative" legislation, and the entiment still exists. Congress intended relief for certain classes of workers, it is argued, and since they failed to benefit under the Welch act further emergency relief legislation should be enacted. Representative Lehlbach, chairman of the civil service committee, announces that he does not favor such legislation. In his opinion the need is for the complete assembly, codification and revision of existing personnel legislation to provide a scientific basis for fixing Government salaries.

There is no hope for quick action on such legislation. While some material has been prepared upon which to base a systematic study of needs and practice, a vast amoun nore must be collected before any one will be in a position to draft adequate legislation. The work of compiling the preliminary material is going forward steadily, however, and there is reason to believe that a start toward preparing legislation can be made during the next session. It goes without saying that the chief need is for comprehensive, scientifically-prepared legislation dealing with personnel problems as a whole, rather than for further emergency legislation. No matter how carefully emergency legislation is prepared, it is bound to slight some important classification or division.

The sensible policy lies in concentrating on the preparation of a comprehensive bill and the abandonment of efforts looking toward the enactment of emergency meas-

NOT AS BISMARCK DID.

September 16, 1929, goes down in history as the date of the beginning of the evacuation of German territory by the allied troops. England began to withdraw her army of occupation on that day, and France and Belgium will shortly follow the lead of the British. More than eleven years will have elansed since the armistice was signed. Yet it will require 59 years for Germany to settle the financial end of the war which was ago so that the biblical span of human life, threescore and ten, will have passed before "finis" can be written. For the next 58 years Germany, under the terms of the Young plan, will pay into the Interational Bank, if such a bank is created, an aggregate of 113,905,400,000 gold marks at the rate of 1,988,800,000 gold marks a year for 37 years on account of "reparations" and during the following 22 years annu I payments of approximately 1,600,000,000 gold marks for what are designated as "outpayments."

It is fortunate for the republic of Germany that the allies had no Bismarck to make and enforce their demands. Otherwise, instead of the evacuation of Germany by the foreigners within twelve years from the close of hostilities, more than two generations would pass before the evacuation would be completed. That is the greatest difference between the outcome of the World War of 1914-1918 and the Franco-Prussian War of 1870-1871. That war began July 19, 1870, and was all over, so far as Napoleon III and his empire were concerned, when he surrendered at Sedan, six weeks later. But the armistice was not signed until January 28 of the following year, and that was when Bismarck exhibited "the iron hand" which always thereafter was attached to his name Bismarck demanded an indemnity of "five milliards of francs," or the equivalent of $1,000,000,000, one-fifth of which was to be paid in 1871 and the remainder within the following four years. French territory was ecupied by German troops until the last ou had been handed over to the kaiser's reasury. That final payment was made on September 16, 1873, which, by a strange coincidence, is the date when, 56 years later, he British troops began to evacuate the thine territory.

The rapidity with which the people of rance brought from their hiding places heir hoardings astonished the world. That indemnity was considered at the time an enormous penalty. But the French republic, stablished upon the ashes of the empire, net every demand, and within the time limit set by the Iron Chancellor the entire sum had been paid and the last German soldier had been withdrawn from French territory, xcept that portion of Lorraine which had een transferred back to German rule after any decades of French control. Alsace and Lorraine are again under the tricolor, and in addition France holds the Saar Valley, in which are located the vast coal fields so essential to the industries of Lorraine. But France is not holding Germany by a death-grip till the last cent is paid, as Bismarck held France.

NEW USES OF COTTON.

The forthcoming national cotton show, which will be held in Memphis, Tenn., September 28 to October 5, will be unique among exhibitions in one respect at least. New uses for cotton will be shown which will certainly cause surprise, among the novelties being propeller blades for airplanes constructed entirely of cotton. The fabric is impregnated with a resinous solution and numberless layers are made into slabs under great pressure, and these slabs fashioned into blades just as wood has been used heretofore.

Wings, fuselage covers, cable covering and numerous other parts of airplanes are also made of cotton. A model of the Graf Zeppelin will be exhibited for the purpose of directing attention to the fact that in the creation of this great airship 70,000 yards of woven cotton cloth were required.

Besides the use of the staple in the making of airships and planes, the visitors to this cotton show will learn that in the manufacture of 4,500,000 automobiles in 1928 there were used 288,000 bales or 144,000,000 pounds of cotton in the shape of tires, tops, upholstery, padding, brake linings and similar accessories.

Another exhibit will be that of the "bag family," in which will be shown bags, sacks and containers of all sorts, from Uncle Sam's mail pouches to the tiny muslin affairs holding a spoonful of tea. Not only will the exhibit demonstrate the wide use of the fiber, but the cotton seed, once considered a byproduct of no value, will appear in a dozen forms, from soap to salad oil, as well as photographic films, high explosives and paper made from the "fuzz" from the seed. Finally comes the "by-product of the by-product, cottonseed oil cake, which is a standard cattle feed in every dairy State in the Union. The Department of Agriculture will endeavor to make the "cotton show" a means of educating the cotton planter in the value of cooperation in marketing, through motion pictures demonstrating the various functions of these associations, which are growing like the proverbial "green bay tree." these associations handled 841,000 bales, or 6 1/2 per cent of the crop. Last year 8 per cent, or 1,151,387 bales, were marketed in this manner. The crop of 1929 is estimated at 14,825,000 bales, and the department is asking what percentage of this total will be handled by the "co-ops."

WHAT BRIDGE PLAYERS WANT.

In New York there is being held this week convention for bridge instructors in which 70 preceptors of the so-called game of contract are gleaning new theories to transmit to their followers. Wilbur Whitehead, whose name is invoked hundreds of times a year by those who hope to confound critical partners, is leading the sessions, supported by capable, though less prominent, assistants. With Messrs. North, East, South and West holding positions of honor, the 70 instructorstudents are learning when to bid without aces or kings, and gaining new insight of the relative value of high cards and quick tricks, their single and promotional value dependent upon distribution and their distribution value as distinct from high card and promotional value. It is all very interesting and goes to prove that, after all, bridge isn't so much a game as it is a serious, scientific pursuit.

Mr. Whitehead divides bridge players into six categories; namely, experts, whom he numbers at not more than ten in the entire country: advanced players, representing about 21/2 per cent of the entire number; good players, representing about 12 1/2 per cent, and average, mediocre and poor players, who make up 85 per cent of the total Those who play bridge will feel that Mr. Whitehead has been too liberal in his estimate. So rarely does one obtain a good or even a satisfactory partner that one is inclined to believe that the three lower classes of bridge players must make up far more than 85 per cent of the total. And since this situation exists, there is reason to look with apprehension upon the activity of the instructor-students under the leadership of

Thus far, the convention has dealt largely with hands in which the face card is conspicuously absent and Mr. Whitehead counsels that they be bid. Does he not know that those who play bridge must, perforce. play with partners, and that the crying need is for some convention to keep partners from bidding 'em when they haven't got 'em? Mr. South, the declarer, of course, has no need of such a convention. He always bids logically, soundly and according to the precepts of the bridge masters. But some way should be found to control Mr. North, the dummy, who seems always to belong in the lower 85 per cent, and who has such a distressing habit of laying down hands two or three tricks shy.

"OLD TECUMSEH."

The next class that enters the Naval Academy can make its pleas to a bronze god, n place of a rotting wooden idel, for "Old Tecumseh" is now at the navy yard in Washington, and the replica in gunmetal will be ent to Annapolis. "Old Tecumseh" served as the figurehead of the U. S. S. Delaware, one of the first of the frigates that gave such an excellent account of themselves a hundred years ago.

Every midshipman knows that without the favor of that historic old wood carving his chance for the mark "two-point-five," which means "you pass" in the exams, is beyond the power of any plebe to obtain. And it is not only the freshies who believe in the power of "Old Tecumseh" to aid them in their ex aminations, as is shown by the fact that the cost of the alchemic process of turning stone into bronze is borne by a bunch of old-timers, survivors of the class of 1891, who have chipped in for the purpose of making sure that those in the academy today, as well as all future classes, may have the in spiration which comes to those who enjoy the favor of the old Indian chieftain.

Superstition lives among men who follow the sea. It is not to be wondered at that the admirals, captains and commanders of today are believers in "Old Tecumseh." All good sailor men have superstitious leanings, although they are not so marked among the youngsters of this age, and that is largely due to the fact that shellbacks have disappeared with the passing of the windjammer It would be difficult to find among the crew of a battleship or a cruiser a score of jackies who know the difference between a marlinspike and a belaying pin. Instead of directing the quartermaster to make his course "due south" the navigator of today directs him to "set her one-eight-owe true," and he gets the same result.

The old-time tar cursed the bad luck that forced him to begin a voyage on Friday. Coleridge, in the "Ancient Mariner," tells what happens to the sailor who would shoot an albatross; and no man before the mast in the days of Decatur or Farragut would ever expect to reach home port after seeing rats jumping overboard. It was bad luck to take a "sky pilot" on board. But if you wanted to be sure that a letter to the folks at home would arrive in the quickest possible time, why, just put a feather from the wing of a sea gull in the envelope. A knife stuck into the mainm'st would always bring the wind from the quarter desired, and when launching a new vessel, if you would have her always lucky, name her after a woman, not man.

Among sailors, real sailors, there always were and always will be superstitions. That's the reason why the figurehead of the Chase the first training ship of the Coast Guard. has been sent to Annapolis as an inspiration for the middies. But whether "Old Tecumseh" in bronze will be as propitious as the ancient wooden original is seriously questioned by some of the old-timers who, from their preempted corners in the Army and Navy Club, despairingly watch the world going to the demnition bow-wows Dentists of the Nation meet in Washington next month, which will be as good a time as any to have a toothache.

AIRPLANES AND LIGHTNING

New York World.

Is there any danger of an airplane being struck by lightning while in flight?

Contrary to general accepted belief among laymen that there is nothing immune against bolts from the clouds, there is considerable variance of opinion among aeronautical meteorologists.

"If I could find one pilot," said Dr. Joseph E. Woodman, professor of geology and lecturer on aeronautical engineering at New York University, "who could tell me positively that his plane had been struck by lightning that would change matters. But so far there has not been one case of direct evidence. It is natural to assume when a plane catches fire during a thunderstorm that lightning did it. But the same results could be attributed to any number of other causes. We have run down a great many alleged cases of planes being struck by lightning," added Prof. Woodman, "but on closer examination the causes either proved to be entirely different or the evidence turned out to be inconclusive. Take for example the case of the Mexican filer, Carranza. At first every one believed he was brought down by lightning. But later it was learned from an investigation of the crash that the flier had tried to make a forced landing during the storm and hit a tree.

"For lightning to strike a body the latter must have a heavy charge of electricity. Those who hold that lightning can strike a plane believe that the plane while in flight gets heavily charged by accumulation. They point to the fact of one cloud discharging horizontally into another cloud and argue by analogy that a plane can accumulate enough electricity to cause a cloud to dis-

"That may be true theoretically but it has never been proved in fact. If you have enough electricity stored up in a plane it The plane, in other words, would be destroyed if there were too large a load and too little plane. Just where that point is is still a question, but I believe it is a matter for mathematical computation whether enough electricity could be crowded into a composition or an all-metal plane to bring about such a possibility. Any ordinary plane, however, has enough metal parts in it to distribute its electric load.

"On the other hand the electrical discharge in the atmosphere is very high so that even a plane that has a lot of metal in it would not be large enough to distribute it. The great danger, to my mind, is of a spark jumping across gaps between the metal igniting gasoline fumes or the gasoline in the wing tanks."

Prof. William Jackson Humphreys, chief of the division of meteorological physics of the United States Weather Bureau, and a scientist of international reputation, holds that while the danger from lightning is slight the chances of an airplane being struck in the air are about 100 times as great as being struck when on the ground.

"The only strong assurance of safety against lightning for an airplane or any other form of aircraft," said Prof. Humphreys, "is to be guided by storm warning and keep out of the air when conditions are dangerous; or, if caught in the air by a storm, to use the superior speed available for escape.

"The chance of being struck by lightning in the air is not great," added Dr. Humphreys. "Still, roughly speaking, it is about 100 times as great as being struck when on the ground, since only about one in a hundred lightning flashes reaches the earth. Being made more or less of metal, an airplane is rather more likely to be struck than something made, say, of glass, or a similar nonconductor, for although the popular expression 'drawing lightning' is incorrect, the course of the flash might be caused to deviate toward the machine by twenty feet or twice

"To be reasonably safe against the direct stroke, the passengers and pilot should be completely inside an envelope of any kind of metal which would receive the charge and gradually dissipate it without injury to them. None the less, the lightning might break guiding wires or cast loose a wing, causing a fatal fall of the machine."

Bill Jones and the Arabs and Kanakas and the Cop. By ROBERT QUILLEN=

A CERTAIN man named Bill Jones lived on the planet Mars and flew to and fro in an airship. One summer day, being bored and thirsty for adventure, he headed skyward and flew to earth. Some time later he dropped down out of the clouds and landed among the astonished natives in northern Africa.

He was in time to witness a scene characteristic of the land and people. On the steps of a French hotel stood a fat and jovial person recognized by all who stood near as an American tourist. In the dust of the street before him stood half a hundred Arabs-all lousy and filthy, all eagerly expectant.

The fat American, conscious of his vast superiority and eager to display and enjoy it, drew from his pocket a handful of coins and tossed them among the Arabs, Immediately there was a wild scramble as the vermin-ridder beggars, devoid of proper pride, fought one another in mad competition for the great one's alms-panting, scratching, screaming, their eyes ablaze with the lust of greed. Bill Jones, from Mars, turned to a stranger and said, "What is it they scramble for?" tapped on top of the bare head with

"Money," said the stranger. "Disgusting, degrading spectacle," said Bill, and without more ado poarded his ship and flew away.

He came down in the harbor at Honolulu in time to see brown boys swimming alongside an anchored steamer whose passengers tossed coins into the water. As each coin fell there was a white froth and splash as the boys dived simultaneously for the treasure. The passengers felt properly superior.
"I suppose they scramble thus for money," Bill said to a bystander.

"Sure," said the man, "what else?"

"Disgusting, degrading spectacle," said Bill.

Next day he stood on a street in God's country and watched the atives scurrying to and fro in a frenzy, their eyes alight with the lust of greed-cheating and defrauding one another; lying, stealing, oppressing-all in a mad scramble that hardened their faces and

"Why, you poor fish," said the cop politely, "they're after the long -money.

er Behavior of St. Marys County Rabbits Reminds W. C. T. U. of Other Aggressive Leporids That Haunted the District of Columbia

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: trickland Gillilan's so-called lucid explanation touching the strange be-(Maryland) rabbits, as recently recorded in your columns, seems not entirely free from the very biological error he attributes to your contrib tor V. B. C. It is likely that the mention of the agreeable odors along St. Marys beleaguered rabbit path, where corn is reported to be marketed by the pint rather than the bushel, has unduly excited the recoilection of your commentator. It is a fact, however, well known to some of your readers, that mention of equally strange phenomena involving like vicious conduct on the part of the genus Lepus cuniculus, mmon rabbit, has previously appeared in your columns. These accounts were read by many of your subscribers long before the rural citizens of Maryland, erstwhile champlons of States' rights, found occaon to vindicate their prerogative to eat or drink whatever, whenever and wheresoever they please.

The feroclous character of that species of common rabbit infesting the borders of the District of Columbla as reported by The Washington Post many years ago, with the comments thereon by Col. Richard Weightman of your editorial staff, were most interesting, though it is true that they unduly alarmed some residents of our Capital City.

V. B. C.'s account is the obviously sober observation of the temperate prevolsteader-what he encountered in Maryland was no pink rhinoceros. orned elephant, armadillo, musk or any other specimen of the fauna which Mr. Gillilan seems so familiar. Let us hear more about

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Of the terms published of the forthcoming limitation of arms conference. attention. I refer to the one which proposes extending the time of bat-tleship replacements until 1936.

Many people in the United States think that as to battleships at least, the United States has parity with Great Britain. This is not the case. Great Britain has twenty battleships, the United States has eighteen. The British have recently completed two very powerful battleships, much superior to the old-ty, American battleships. Not only are the British battleships superior in number but also in speed and range.

ginning in 1931, were designed to correct this inequality, both nations to ssess fifteen battleships of practically equal power by 1936. Suspen-sion of the replacements leaves Great Britain with the superior fleet. This other side of the water. It was, in fact, suggested by the British at Geneva, but was not pressed. may say, any naval engagement between the United States and Great Britain would be decided by battleships. This because it would be fought on the open sea, and, ur these conditions, battleships have greater stability and, of course, bigger guns, greater range and greater re-sisting power because of armor. Airplane sinkings of old-type, stationary battleships prove nothing.

In these days of highly trained tacticians, victory is almost to go to the stronger fleet. If our battleship fleet is the weaker, inpay the expenses. Even the Middle are an auxiliary arm and will remain so. What is the answer?

THE great military exposition and carnival, held each year at the Army War College and set for October 3, 4 and 5, promises this time to be "bigger and bet-ter than ever." Ever since the World War people have been wondering how Sergt. York could break up a machine gun nest, kill more than a score of Germans and bring in 132 prisoners single handed. So the Army proposes to show exactly how it was done, and will have Sergt. York-in person, not a movie-to see that everything is done right. The reenactment of this historic exploit will be a stirring climax to the great military show, and in addition there will be all sorts of carnival features.

Bridge Brevities, a pamphlet by Milton C. Work, the World's preeminent authority on Auction and Contract Bridge, free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it.

THIS hand was played in a game of Contract and I viewed the play from the dummy seat. My partner, with a count of 25, of course started by biding three No Trumps. (In Auction he would have bid one or perhaps two.) No other player had a bid in either game.

West opened with his fourth best Heart which my hand (the dummy) won with the King. My partner then realized that he would like to Heart which my hand (the dummy) won with the King. My partner then realized that he would like to make a number of finesses in closed hand and that his dummy entries were limited; so he led dummy's Ten of Spades and took the double finesse by letting the Ten ride when East played small. West won and cleared his Heart suit. My partner, now in the lead, led four rounds of Clubs, taking the fourth in the dummy; and, with six tricks in hand, had two Aces left and chances for an Ace-Queen finesse in both Spades and Diamonds—either of which would produce game if successful. He tried the Spade and took in all two Spades, two Hearts, one Diamond and four Clubs—game.

Why did I feel chagrined over the result of this hand?

THE CORRECT PLAY

While unbild slams do not count in Contract, and my partner did make his contract and game, there is no law against trying for extra tricks which count 50 points each. My Heart King furnished a dummy lead and my partner should have seen that the Six of Clubs was another entry. The Diamond finesse looked just as promising as the Spade, and partner should have tried to establish my long Diamonds. He should have led a small Diamond to trick 2, finessing the Queen; then he should have led the Ace and a third Diamond, losing to East but leaving two long Diamonds in dummy. East would continue Hearts and South would imm right in with the Ace THE CORRECT PLAY would continue Hearts and South would jump right in with the Ace, take four club tricks (the last in dummy), which would give him the chance to cash dummy's two Dia-monds. Then the Spade finesse would be taken for a small slam. (Copyright. 1929.)

The Mouse-Deer. I N SOUTHERN Asia and Western Africa are small animals known as "chevrotains." Their name comes from an old French word meaning "little goat."

In spite of its name the chevrotain is not a member of the goat On the other hand, there has been trouble in placing it in any other family. Some have tried to group it wit the pigs, but it has so many traits different from pigs that we cannot place it in that family. Chevrotains are often spoken of as

'distant relatives" of deer. Their slender legs, their four-toed feet, and the shape of their bodies, help lead slender legs, their four-toed feet, and the shape of their bodies, help lead to this conclusion. It is understood, however, that they are not real deer—even though they are not real deer—even though they are called "deerlets" and "mouse-deer." Their heads may make one think of the heads of mice.

The chevrotains are about ten inches tall, when full grown. Their bodies measure a little more than a foot in lenth. Their front legs are not much thicker than a lead pencil. None of these animals have horns. The males have small tusks coming from the upper jaw. The "tusks" are sharp, slightly curved teeth, an inch or half an inch in length. Though short, as tusks go, they are useful. Travelers say that mouse-deer run with great apeed, gaining remarkable use from their slender legs. When one is hard pressed by dogs, it is said, he may try to save his life by leaping to the branch of a tree and hanging on with his tusks. Like oppossums. mouse-deer sometimes "play dead" until they see a good chance to escape.

"play dead" until they see a good chance to escape.

Mouse-deer are timid creatures, but they have been tamed in more than one case. If they become angry, they kick with their hind legs.

A mouse-deer was once set loose on a dinner table. It ran from plate to plate and nibbled the fruit. When called by name, it answered and aeemed to enjoy the petting which was given.

A NGUS, who is a Scotsman, and, therefore, supposed to be unromantic and unsentimental, writes in to confound us and rebuke us for our recent statement that one might love and still at times be just a wee bit boxed! Never, says the Scotaman. Never! Well, we wonder. We really said that it was hypocritical of a wife to appear shocked when her husband evidenced a desire for a few hours out of earshot of her tailvery voice, since every woman knows that it is possible to love a man and still kiss him good-bye with real relief—for instance, on Monday morning after an unusually trying week-end. One of those week-ends when the head of the family decides to do a little puttering with a gallon or two of some especially foul-smelling varnish. Or one of those festive occasions when he thinks he will see what is fin all those boxes that came up from the office four years ago last March. us for our recent statement that on March.

We may be wrong in believing that love survives these moments of exasperation, but we certainly are not wrong in saying that at such moments all a woman asks of life is that "that man" get out of the house before she says something she will be sorry for!

Now that's our case, and you may now hear Angus:

Now that's our case, and you may now hear Angus:

"Some time ago I first read your column and applauded the wisdom of your words. And now you amaze me by your recent thoughtlessness in stating that love can be bored with the loved one. I would not have expected such a sentiment from you, but before condemning it. I asked my wife, who is French, whether she would subscribe to such a sentiment herself, and she at once agreed with me that love knows no bosedom where the beloved is concerned. We have been married for nine years. I am 39 and she is 28. I, being a scotchman, am not ordinarily sentimental, but I do depore your attitude in this. My wife does many trying things. In fact she upsets me completely at times, as she is of extreme temperament, but never have I wished to be rid of her because of that and never have I seen in her the least evidence of a wish to be rid or her be be rid of pour because of that and never have I seen in her the least evidence of a wish to be rid of my many eccentricities and faults.

"Your province, it seems to me, is a very sacred one, and I hope you will not again be so thouhtigess as to state that wives kiss their husbands good-bye with real relief. We husbands have feelings—like most mortals. And such a statement from a woman of so sweet a nature as you consistently reveal hurts deeply, causing the gravest of doubts in a man's mind. ## Why hospitals use it

Did you know that Kotex filler (Cellucotton absorbent wadding) is used in 85% of our leading hospitals? Surgeons prefer it for all absorptive purposes-including the most important surgical work. They use it because it is so wonderfully absorbent (5 mmes more, by test, than the finest cotton); so hygienically safe.

Use it once-and you'll be in no doubt as to its Kotex is Soft...

Morning inders seldom doze

Only the morning hours have Vita-Minutes—minutes when your mind is refreshed by sleep and rest. Morning minds read with a grasp, an alertness, responsiveness which is the advertiser's much-sought opportunity.

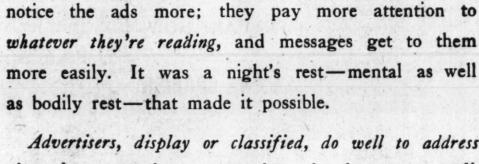

When you ride a morning street car, or bus, or suburban train, look for a dozer! You're not apt to see one; it's the evening riders who doze.

Which, of course, just emphasizes in another way a fact that everybody knows: that people are more alert, fresher, more fit, after a night's rest than they are after a day's work.

That applies to minds, too, as well as bodies. People's minds work so much better in the morning (as students well know) that you can distinguish a big and significant difference between morning hours and the other hours of the day: Morning point. People get more news in a few minutes; they Advertisers, display or classified, do well to address themselves to readers among whom the dozers are negligible. That's one reason for the alert advertiser's use of the Morning Post. Another is the fact that the Post advertiser gets a quality as well as a quantity of coverage in this rich market which is not available to advertisers in all of the country's prosperous population-centers. Not every city can offer as good an advertising bargain as does Washington in the Morning Post.

Miss Katherine Bear

Bride of Mr. Aulick. A wedding of interest in Washington and in Virginia took place last evening at 8 o'clock in the Church of the Pilgrims when Miss Katherine Russell Bear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Bear, formerly of Staunton, Va., became the bride of Mr. Charles Eugene Aulick, jr., son of Mrs. C. E. Aulick, of Winchester, of Mrs. C. E. Aulick, of Winchester, Va.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivery satin and lace, made on princess lines, and a veil of eggshell tulle caught in cap-shape with orange blosoms. She' carried a shower bouquet of roses and illies of the vailey with a center corsage of orchids and gardenias. Mrs. Lewis Randolph Watson, fr., acted as matron of honor and wore a gown of lace and chiffon in old blue. She carried pink roses. Little Miss Anne Neville Watson, wearing pale pink and carrying a basket of flowers, was the bride's only other attendant.

Mr. Aulick had as his best man Mr. Lawrence A. Barnes, and the ushers were Mr. Roger J. Bear, of Cincinnati; Mr. Lewis Hall, of Norfolk: Mr. Keith Schwinley and Mr. Benjamin Hogan, of Washington.

The Rev. Mr. Andrew Bird, pastor of the Church of the Pligrims, performed the ceremony, and Mr. Johnson, who is the church organist, played the wedding music.

An informal reception for members of the wedding party, relatives and close friends followed immediately after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents in Cleveland Park, after which Mr. and Mrs. Aulick left for a motor trip to Canada. They will be at home after October 1 at 1715 Quarrier street, Charletson, W. Va.

Lord Caterham, who had begun to se from his chair, paused.

"Did you say you were in a hurry?" se asked suspiciously.

"In the devil of hurry," said hundle.

"That settles it," said Lord Caterham "I'm not coming. To be driven by you in the Hispano when you're in a hurry—no, it's not fair on any siderly man. I shall stay here."

"Please yourself," said Bundle, and sithdrew.

Tredwell took her place.

"The vicar, my lord, is most anxious to see you, some unfortunate controversy having arisen about the satus of the Boy's Brigade."

Lord Caterham groaned.

"I rather fancled, my lord, that I had heard you mention at breakfast that you were strolling down to the vilage this morning to converse with the sicar on the subject."

"Did you tell him so?" asked Lord Caterham eagerly.

"I did, my lord. He departed, if I may say so, hotfoot. I hope I did right, my lord?"

"Of course, you did, Tredwell. You are always right. You couldn't go wfong if you tried."

Tredwell smiled benignly and withdrew.

Bundle, meanwhile, was sounding the klaxon impatiently before the jodge gates, while a small child came hastening out with all speed from the lodge, admonishment from her mother following her.

"Make haste, Kate. That be her ladyship in a mortal hurry as always." Always in a Hurry.

It was indeed characteristic of Bundle to be in a hurry, especially when driving a car. She had skill and nerve and was a good driver; had it been otherwise her reckless pace would have ended in disaster more than once.

-It was a crisp October day, with a blue sky and a dazzling aun. The sharp tang of the air brought the hlood to Bundle's cheeks and filled her with the zest of living.

Ten Per Cent Call Funds Cause New Selling Wave to Hit Stocks.

FEW SPOTS ARE STRONG

New York, Sept. 17 (A.P.).-The stream of credit flowing into the stock market grew unexpectedly sluggish today, sending the call loan rate up to 10 per cent, and once more opening the spillways of stock liquidation. Operations for the advance, which had been resumed yesterday as the recent flood of selling ppeared to have subsided, were unpleasantly interrupted.

Call money renewed unchanged at 71/2 per cent, and the bullish operawere pressed forward enthusiastically during the forenoon, particularly in the utilities, to which section of the list interesting merger prospects have again attracted considerable attention. Formation of siderable attention. Formation of large new holding companies have auggested the possibility of competitive bidding for control.

Banks called some $40,000,000 in loans during the day, which sent the call money rate from 7½ to 8, thence to 9, and finally to 10 per cent. Early gains were canceled or sharply reto 9, and finally to 10 per cent. Early gains were canceled or sharply reduced during the afternoon. Several leading utilities retained substantial gains, but stocks generally closed moderately lower. The pinch in money, following the midmonth settlements, came a few days earlier than was expected, and found traders unprepared.

New Plan Employed This Time.

Money has usually been eased over Treasury refinancing dates by the Treasury overdraft at the reserve banks, but it is understood the rebanks, but it is understood the reserve system employed a new plan this time by which the overdraft was passed, on to the member banks, which reduced reserve funds, having the same effect as the sale of Government securifies. Wall street was inclined to see in this a new move by reserve authorities to apply the brakes to the stock market.

The day's business news was rather meager. Some of the leading rail-brakes to the stock market.

The day's business news was rather meager. Some of the leading railroads were said to be once more in the market for large orders of equipment, which improved sentiment in the steel industry. Cuts in the prices of steel scrap at Chicago and Youngstown, however, were displeas-Youngstown, however, were displeasing. Directors of the Wheeling & Lake Brie declared a dividend of 425.50 to apply to arrears on the 7 per cent prior lien stock.

Public Service of New Jersey, Columbia Gas & Electric, American and Poreign Power, Electric Power & Light and Southern California Edison were among utilities reaching hew high ground, the first named closing up 5 points. United Gas Improvement was heavily bought.

Tinless Cans

Carelessly a metal worker in a small Chicago shop tossed a box of chemicals toward a shelf. The box slipped—fell into a molten pot of aluminum. One hundred pounds of valuable metal was ruined—supposedly.

As it cooled the "spoiled aluminum" behaved queerly. The shop owners, Girard & Messlein, did not throw it away—they saw a chance, and tested it. The metal proved more like steel in strength; it would not tarnish; it could be soldered. Girard & Messlein discovered it could be electroplated upon iron—and behold! They had a substitute for tin.

"Tinless tin cans" are now being manufactured—and proving to be cheaper. Girard & Messlein, by careful and scientific study, had turned a mistake into an opportunity—just as many a man who makes a mistake in finance is stimulated to make a careful study of investment, and turns his temporary misfortune into permanent gain. He invests thereafter only in sound securities, with a secure and unfailing interest return—such as the 6% First Mortgage Notes sold through the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Company.

Paying unfalling interest returns through sixty years of widely varying conditions, these Notes have built for thousands of our clients comfortable and steadily growing incomes, with assured safety of capital. They are sold in denominations as low as $100.

STOCK MART IS QUIET

By THOMAS M. CAHILL. By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Several factors may operate to provide an increased demand for conservative bonds during the coming months, according to the Quarterly Bond Review of Halsey, Stuart & Cc., published yesterday. It cites the restriction in the supply of new issues and the absence of heavy inventories for the bond dealers as two factors which should serve to leave the narket in a healthy condition for expansion when it develops.

Proceeding, it points to several pertinent possibilities for increased bond market, activity, stating; "Redempactivity, stating: "Redemptions, involving many hundred millions of dollars in bonds of conserva-tive quality, have operated to reduce the aggregate of fixed income-bearing securities. The liquidation of bonds by banks has also proceeded to a point where it semes reasonable to expect that the volume of bonds thrown upon the market from this source will be materially less than it has been during the last year and a haif.

"Again, there remains very suo-stantial and dependable outlets for a large volume of senior securities among the thousands of individuals who are little subject to speculative influences, and with the hundreds of institutions who look to bonds as their proper investment medium, and who constitute a powerful influence in the market.

"Pinally, the speculative wave which has been sweeping the coun-ity—regardless of its immediate ef-fect on the bond market—has had the effect of familiarizing thousands of newcomers with the purchase of the effect of familiarizing thousands of newcomers with the purchase of accurities. It seems entirely reasonable to expect that, as conditions change and those investors give due regard to safety of principal, they will turn in large numbers to the bond market. This applies equally to the financing corporations, which though not now large buyers of bonds, no doubt eventually will be if they settle down to conservative practices."

Bonds Resume Activity.

The bond division of the Washington Stock Exchange showed greater activity yesterday than at any time during the past week, total sales of $15,300 being the largest of any session since September 6. The market generally receded and the stock turnover of 222 showed a slight decrease from the previous session.

Heaviest bond selling was in Capital Traction 5s and Potomac Electric 5s, $2,000 of the former selling at 94, a point loss; $1,000 at 93%. and $1,000 at 93%. The second issue sold to the extent of $5,000 at 99%. Fractional decline.

Revenue Freight Loading.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended September 7, totaled 1,017,072 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday, this being an increase of 25,687 cars over the same week last year and an increase of 27,273 cars over the same week two years ago. Due to the observance of Labor Day, however, the total for the week of September 7 was a reduction of 143,138 cars under the preceding week.

Medical services and medicine temporary unemployment and financial entanglements are given as the reasons for 85 per cent of small loan requirements, according to L. C. Har-bison, president of Household Finance Corporation, the largest organization Corporation, the largest organization of its kind in the United States.

"A study of 10,000 cases, recently completed, shows that 82 per cent of those loans were made to husbands and wives jointly," said Mr. Harbison.

"Studies of the small loan situation, have further revealed that only about 10 per cent of the salaried people of our cities own securities on which they can get loans readily from banks." Installment huwing is a big factor.

"Installment buying is a big factor "Installment buying is a big factor. Home owners become involved in monthly payments and very often, hard pressed by bill collectors, obtain these quick cash foans to wipe out overdue accounts. While the small loan law permits a rate of 3½ per cent a month. Household Finance Corporation last autumn voluntarily reduced its rate to 2½ per cent a month."

Canadian Wheat Yield.

Canadian Wheat Yield.

A yield of Canadian wheat this autumn below the average in recent years need not discourage the Canadian farmer, nor prevent Canada from continuing her progress as the world's largest wheat exporter, a status of the utmost importance to the dominion as a whole, says S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Neither 1928 nor 1929 can be considered normal years in world wheat-growing the former being one of almost general abnormal yield per acre, while the latter is proving to be one of aubnormal yield in some of the chief producing countries. With an average crop during the past five years of 419,000,000 bushels, as compared with a prewar figure of 197, 500,000 bushels, and with an average yield per acre between three and four bushels higher than that of any of the three other great exporting countries, even allowing for occasional subnormal gradually increasing exportable aurplus for some time to come, considcrops, Canada can look forward to a gradually increasing exportable sur-plus for some time to come, consid-erably above the annual average of $10,000,000 bushels during the last

Earnings Consolidated earnings of the Company and subsidiary companies, based upon the reports of certified public accountants, for the twelve months ended April 30, 1929, and, as to certain subsidiaries, for the twelve months ended March 31, 1929. (excluding non-recurring charges of $168,684 and interest and dividend charges on funded debt, preferred and common stocks for the acquisition and/or retirement of which funds deemed ample have been de-posited) were as follows:

Ggoss earnings
Operating expenses, including maintenance and charges on subsidiary securities, but before depreciation and Federal income Balance $1,270,943 Annual Interest Requirement on $9,000,000 First Lien Gold Bonds, 6% Series of 1927 540,000 Balance .....

The above balance of $730,943 is in excess of 3.04 times the annual interest requirement of $240,000 on the Company's $4,000,000 Three-Year Convertible 6% Gold Notes, due July 1, 1932, outstanding.

Conversion Privilege These Notes may, subject to the provisions of the Trust Indenture relating to reorganization, stock dividends, etc., at the option of the holder, zation, stock dividends, etc., at the option of the holder, be converted prior to maturity into Class A Participating Common Stock of Union Power Corporation (the owner of the entire outstanding Common Stock of Federal Public Service Corporation), as constituted at the time of conversion on the basis of four shares of the present class of Class A Participating Common Stock, which is without par value, for each $100 principal amount of Notes, with adjustment of accrued interest. Any Notes which may be called for redemption before maturity shall be convertible up to ten days tion before maturity shall be convertible up to ten days ior to the redemption date.

Security
These Notes are, in the opinion of counsel, a direct obligation of the Company and subject only to the First Lien Gold Bonds of the Company and outstanding securities of subsidiaries. The Trust Indenture under which these Three-Year Convertible Six Per Cent Gold Notes are issued provides that so long as any of these Three-Year Convertible Six Per Cent Gold Notes are outstanding no additional secured debt of the Company other than additional First Lien Gold Bonds, purchase money obligations and obligations maturing within one year from date of issuance and the renewal and refunding of any such obligations will be created unless these of any such obligations will be created unless these Three-Year Convertible Six Per Cent Gold Notes shall be secured on a parity with such additional secured debt. The properties of Federal Public Service Corporation The properties of Federal Public Service Corporation and subsidiary companies have been appraised by independent engineers, and these appraisals, after giving effect to subsequent additions and retirements, and after deducting depreciation, prior funded debt of the Company and outstanding securities of subsidiary companies, show the sound value of the properties at May 31, 1929, as largely in excess of the Three-Year Convertible 6% Gold Notes outstanding.

Purpose of Issue These Notes were used in connection with the recent acquisition by the Company of additional subsidiaries serving approximately 27,700 customers, in 62 communities having a combined estimated population in excess of 300,000, located in 9 states.

Management The management of the Company is in the hands of men with long experience in the direction and operation of public utility properties. Federal Public Service Corporation is controlled by Union Power Corporation, a large majority of the voting Common Stock of which is owned by H. M. Byllesby and Company and American Equities Company.

On Sensational Shot Glen Falls, N. Y., Sept. 17 (A.P.).—
Billy Burke, New York State open champion of Westport, today won the Glen Falls open championship out of a field of 92 entries with a score of 323 for 81 holes, to win the first prize money of 8500 and the E. W. West cup. Burke had to play an extra nine holes today with Bill Mehlhorn, of White Plains, who had a score of 324.

To win the tournament, Burke made one of the most sensational shots in the history of the course. He pitched his ball to the green from the tee on the short ninth hole, making a hole in the rain-softened green where the high pitch fell. To get back over the hole, which was in direct line with the cup, Burke used a number three iron, chipped the ball over the hole and dropped it into the cup for a birdle two.

A QUEDUCT FACE TRACK, N. Y.,
Sept. 17 (A.P.).—Over a good track Distraction, carrying the Wheatley Stable's silks, acored an impressive victory in the Bay Shore Handicap, a 7-furlong sprint, which featured the opening day here. Distraction was well played at 3 to 1.
Arden Parms Stable's Sun Edwin, favorite in the betting, was second, and Eddie Ahearn was third. The time was 1:24 1-5. The start was delayed by the bad actions of Eddie Ahearn.

CLEMSON GRIDMEN READY FOR OPENER SATURDAY

Husky Eleven Is Assured This Year

Young Giants Look Promising After Early Drills.

Plenty of Back Field Talent to Aid Coach Cody.

CLEMSON COLLEGE S. C., Sept. 17.—The first two weeks of practice have been fruitful ones for the Clemson football aquad. The boys have been getting intensive work since the first day or so, and are showing improvement daily.

Coach Cody has three candidates who are men of mystery. Salley, Dyess and Yarborough are being shifted around in an effort to find the niches into which they best ft. Salley has been taking turns at center and full back, Dyess has had a fling at center and tackle, while Yarborough is workin at guard, tackle and end.

With the opening game less than end.

With the opening game less than one week in the distance, Metz Gresham, 183-pound sophomore, seems to have an edge on the center position. Dyess and Salley are probably his closest competitors at the present time, with Bowies, Rodgers and Griffin still in the running. Husky Linemen Seek Regular Berths.

Two veterans of the line, Jim Gassaway and Bill Gunnells, are leading in the race for guard berths. They are both big boys, and both have had considerable experience in varsity competition. Mule Yarborough, one of the men not yet established; John Wall, 250-pound sophomore giant from Anderson; Reuben Seigel, of the same class and city, and S. A. T. other outstanding prospects for the guard positions.

Occupants of the tackle berths are perhaps most easily chosen. Bob Bwofford, the bone-crushing bohe-moth, is sure of one tackle place. Bob plays guard on offense and tackle on defense, making his position an unusually difficult one, but he is able to carry the double load with distinction. Joe Collins, a rangy and powerful lad, who made himself known last season, appears to be the most likely choice at the other tackle. There is ample substitute strength at the tackle positions with Dick Magill, Ralph Smith, Vick Fleming and Homer Solomon each putting in a strong oar, and a few others who will make up the reserves.

Versatile Half Backs

Are Plentiful.

Are Plentiful.

Half backs on the Crimson squad are legion. Most of them are a bit shy on weight; there is not a genuine big back in the lot. Gat McMillan and John Justus have had most experience. McMillan is a passer of well known accomplishments and Justus was mentioned on numerous all-American honor rolls last year for his provess as running half back. Frank Sowell will get into plenty of contests, and Booby Spoth has shown up well in scrimmiage despite his diminutive build. The sophomores provide an imposing array of half backing talent, with Maxey Welch, a big triple threat man; Caspar Hallman, Lionel Harvin and Jim Pickelsimer as the leading lights. Competition in this division will be unusually keen.

The entire crowd is in high spirits and they with students and local enthusiasts, are eagerly awaiting the kick-off Saturday.

the fans were given a scare in the ninth when McManus walked as a starter. He was forced by Akers, but the latter was propelled to third on Hargrave's single. Harris then called on "Pat" Pothergill, a dangerous man in a pinch, to hit for Page and there was much sative rejoicing when he rolled sharply to Hayes, who started a double play which Myer and Judge finished.

While Jones was doing his bit effectively, his mates were helping out in more ways than one. Joe Judge, Joe Cronin and Bennie Tate contributed nifty plays to make the old-timer's path easier on defense, while the four runs they gave him were more than enough to assure him of victory.

Eight Navy Gridmen

Are Out With Injuries

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 17.—Navy's football drill today consisted of a defensive scrimmage. Two teams, composed of leading players, were pitted against the scrubs and piebes at alternate periods.

Eight varsity men and four plebe players were absent from practice. All are suffering from minor leg injuries. Joe Clifton, the big full back, is limping around with a charley horse: Frank Crinkley, lineman, is suffering from contusion of the knee, as is H. C. York. W. D. Coleman, R. C. Bauer and S. E. Shelton are also bothered by tight muscles, while Greathouse has a strained knee and L. J. Kirn a pulled muscle in the thigh.

Of the plebes disabled, J. Dennehauer, captain of Severn School last season, has a sprained knee, as has J. R. Reedy. N. N. Samuels, another Severn player of a year ago, has groin trouble, while J. C. McConnell, left-hand pitcher of the plebe ball team, has a bad knee.

However, the squad will get down to serious business this week and before Saturday rolls around should have had several intersquad serious for face from now on maughton and Walsh are endeavoring to have their charges in shape for the opening game two weeks from Saturday, but they will be forced to hustle from now on.

Notwithstanding the loss of the two former Kendall Green stars, an inventory of football material at Gallaudet after a week of rigorous drilling has revealed an abundance of candidates for the back field positions.

However, dnly a lean stock of linesmen are now in training and unless the late comers who are expected to show up today yield a faster crop of guards and tackiers, Coach Hughes may be obliged to switch some of his reserve backs to the front line.

Sixteen Lettermen Return To Tarheel Grid Squad

Nine Backs and Seven Linemen Give Coaches Visions of Successful Season; Scrimmages to Start Today.

To End Post.

Sixteen lettermen are on hand—nine backs and seven linemen. Don Holt, who has played a good game at end for the last two years, was the last veteran to arrive in camp. Holt held a good business job during the aummer and had about decided to stick to it rather than return to college. His coaches and his mates are mighty glad to have him back. Holt played a bang-up game at end last season and is expected to attract much attention in the conference this year.

It appears now that Pete Wyrick, a second-year varsity man, will general the team in the opening game with Wake Porest on September 28. Wyrick alternated with Whisnant and Erickson in running the team last year and performed nicely.

Arlington Hall, college for girls lo cated at Glebewood, Arlington County, will open its third achool year Wednesday, September 25, according to an announcement made last night from the office of the president. Dr. William E. Martin.

The college, established three years ago with less than 100 girls has grown rapidly until the enrollment this year will be 200, it is stated.

In a letter addressed to the Arling-County Zoning Commission by Thomas Smythe Wallis regent the Frances Wallis Chapter, ighters of the American Revolution and made public yesterday.

Wallis says:

"As regent of the Frances Wallis Chapter. Daughters of the American Revolution. I wish to enter a protest, both for myself and for those local members of the chapter who have the interest of their community at heart and who have viewed with discress signboards and other nulasances that obstruct the beauty of the natural scenery, against the application now before your body from the Sun Oil Co. for a permit to establish, along the Lee highway in Rossiyn, a distribution plant. The matter of the oil company is of farnatter of the oil company is of far matter of the oil company is of far-reaching consequences. It has for its object the acquisition of a large part of the land that comprises the pro-posed park site for the National Cap-ital Park and Planning Commission for the improvement of the palissades of the Potomac River from the Key Bridge to the Chain Bridge. To grant this permit would hamper this plan and destroy the beauty of the hills and valleys and would be a blot-to the fair name of our county."

Arlington County is to be includ-ed in the campaign itinerary of Dr. John Gariand Pollard, Democratic candidate for governor, it was learned last night.

When the voters of the county with the voters of the county will be given opportunity to meet and hear Pollard has not been definitely determined, but his appearance in the county is expected the latter part of this month.

William L. Bragg, chairman of the Arlington County Democratic committee, announces that he is making arrangements for the meeting and a reception of the candidate.

The time and place of the meeting will be announced later.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club with the president, Dr. R. N. Sutton, in the chair.

The celebration will end tomorrow night with the announcement and coronation of Miss Takoma and athletic events. A masquerade dance will complete the evening.

Government Drafts

According to an announcement made last night by W. Thomas French, county chairman of Constitution week, which is being sponsored by the American Bar Association, there will be a mass meeting Friday night in the auditorium of the Washington-Lee High School at 8 o'clock. Seth W. Richardson, Assistant United States Attorney General, will be the principal speaker.

The meeting is open to the general public and it is hoped by the committee that the auditorium will be filled to its capacity.

The county health department, under the supervision of Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, started a tour of inspection of all schools yesterday.

As announced by Dr. Chichester, this work will be carried on until all children have been examined.

"The health of, the children of Arlington County is better than I have ever found it and it is rapidly reaching the point of perfection. This has only been made possible by the hearty cooperation the health department has received from parents."

The Chichester said.

Second Annual Celebration Is Viewed by Notables; Parade Colorful.

ADDRESSES ARE HEARD

The second annual celebration of

The second annual celebration of the Takoma Park Chamber of Commerce got under way last night to a flying start in spite of bad weather conditions. The parade and the audience that watched and listened to several distinguished guests showed an appreciable increase over last year despite the weather.

Those who spoke were Mayor Ben G. Davis of Takoma Park, who welcomed the audience and the speakers; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d. of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission: District Commissioner Sidney Taliaferro, fermer Senator Blair Lee, of Maryland, who spoke on the early days of Takoma Park; Charles A. Darr, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, who urged cooperation between town and chamber; Montrogomery County Commissioner Lacy Shaw and Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, of Maryland.

The parade was a thing of color, Gayly decorated floats yield with each other in color effects, and five bands combined musical airs to which the marchers of several veteran organizations and citizens' associations marched.

Indictments were returned yesterday against 60 persons on these charges arising from strike disorders here August 31. Nearly 100 persons were arrested, but only the cases against Hoffman, Láwrence Hogan, J. Hugh Ball, Wess Fowler, Will Russell and Del Lewis were called today. No Mr. Hayes believes that the number of licenses, especially for pleasure cars, will show a considerable gain during the final four months of the year. New models of a large number of automobiles, it was pointed out, were recently placed on the market, stimulating the purchase of new cars.

Charlottesville Va., Sept. 17.—A new extenson project — the bureau of school and community drama—headed by Luther Ward Greene, will be inaugurated in the curriculum offered by the University of Virginia extension division, for the session 1929-30. George B Zehmer, director, stated today.

According to the program an attempt will be made to put new spiril into the frequently flat and stereotyped high school and community productions. The stated purpose is to achieve a high permanent standard in these dramatic efforts.

The bureau, which will piace emphasis upon the school producing group and the little theater, has made a collection of several hundred short and long plays into a loan library, which will be available upon request. These books will be sent throughout the States to all who are interested, whether for reading purposes or for the selection of plays for production.
